FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION

A student or student organization may not speak or represent a point of view on behalf of the College or the Associated Student Body Government (A.S.B.G.) without express authorization.

In the classroom, students may take exception to information or views offered in the course of study and may disagree with their instructor's opinions. Regardless, students are still responsible for learning the content of the course.

In student publications, such as a newspaper, content must follow the accepted canons of journalism and opinions must be disclaimed as not necessarily those of the College or the Clatsop Community College body.
